

How Come We Didn't Know?

The corporate take-over of our NHS!

A photographic exhibition by
Marion Macalpine
at The Dugdale
Centre in Enfield
Town 19th July to 31st August 2018

Opening Talk
'Keeping our NHS Public'
Tuesday 24th July at 7.30pm
Prof. Sue Richards

Sue is a health campaigner on the Executive of KONP (Keep our NHS Public) and one of the 5 applicants for the Judicial Review challenging the introduction of ACO's (Accountable Care Organisations) into the NHS, as well as being an academic and writer on public management. She co-chairs the CHPI (Centre for Health and the Public Interest) and worked in the Cabinet Office for several years. DON'T MISS THIS!

The NHS Logo masks the fact that hundreds of health services are now run by giant corporations that profit from the NHS at our expense.

Sponsored by DENHS which shares the aim of the many local groups across the country to publicise and challenge, in whatever way possible, the dismantling of our national treasure, the NHS. In the words of Nye Bevan, the founder of the NHS 'The NHS will last as long as there are folk left with the faith to fight for it.'

The exhibition explains how privatisation is encouraged by the frequent and ongoing reorganisations of the NHS as it moves away from the founding principle of free healthcare for all.
